

THE DOG ROBOT COMPANION

In particular, the AIBO robot is an animal-like robot, a robotic pet, Sony manufactured "AIBO", among other robotic products, an autonomous bot that could walk, "see" its environment and recognize spoken commands in Spanish and English. This robot are highly popular with the physically and mentally ill.

This robot is a robot dog, it is useful for the home, it is black and white and it replaces a real dog. No need to feed and clean this dog and it does not die. This is an animal robot or a robotic pet, usually in the shape of real or mythical animal.

It is used in hospitals to be with sick children, it is used by children to entertain. As for the elderly in need of company it can replace a dog for a blind if programmed for it! It executes our orders by voice commands. Autonomous robots can learn and mature under the guidance of the owner or stimuli from their environment or with other robots. It is also provided with sensors.

I think this robot is very interesting, it did not need to be feed and has no reason to be sad about its death because the latter can not die unless it runs out of battery energy.

http://www.sony.net/SonyInfo/News/Press_Archive/199905/99-046/
<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Aibo>